British Airways Baggage Allowance by Travel Class

The baggage allowance varies depending on the cabin in which you travel. Understanding these differences can help you select the right ticket for your luggage requirements.

1. Economy Class

Economy passengers generally receive a checked baggage allowance of 23 kg per included bag, depending on their fare. Basic Economy-style fares may have different restrictions and may not include checked baggage.

Passengers should review their ticket details before packing.

2. Premium Economy

Premium Economy passengers generally receive a checked baggage allowance of 23 kg per bag. This cabin offers additional comfort compared with standard Economy and may include more checked luggage depending on the route and ticket conditions.

3. Business Class

Business Class passengers generally receive a higher baggage weight allowance, with individual checked bags permitted up to 32 kg when included in their ticket allowance.

This option is suitable for travelers carrying additional luggage for longer trips.

4. First Class

First Class passengers can generally check individual bags weighing up to 32 kg, subject to their ticket's baggage allowance.

The number of permitted bags depends on the applicable route and booking conditions.

What Is the Maximum Carry-On Baggage Weight?

British Airways also has specific rules for cabin baggage. Passengers can generally bring one cabin bag and one personal item, subject to the airline's size requirements.

The standard maximum weight for each cabin bag is 23 kg, provided the passenger can lift and place it in the overhead locker without assistance.

Typical cabin baggage dimensions are:

- Cabin bag: 56 × 45 × 25 cm.
- Personal item: 40 × 30 × 15 cm.

These measurements include handles, wheels, and external pockets. Check the latest requirements before traveling because allowances can depend on the booking and operating airline.

What Happens If Your Baggage Exceeds the Weight Limit?

If your checked bag exceeds the permitted weight, British Airways may charge an overweight baggage fee or require you to repack your luggage.

An individual checked bag weighing more than 32 kg is generally not accepted as normal checked baggage and may need to be transported through another service.

To avoid problems:

- Weigh your luggage before leaving home.
- Distribute heavy items between permitted bags.
- Check your ticket's baggage allowance.
- Remove unnecessary belongings.
- Purchase additional baggage in advance if available.

Remember that paying an excess baggage fee does not automatically mean every overweight bag will be accepted.
