A Strategic Vision for Development in Memphis

UMH Properties acknowledges how essential it is for development to be carefully planned to determine a city’s future. With Memphis on a growth trajectory, the need for more affordable housing options is critical to maintain and strengthen community well-being. UMH’s multi-phase project approach ensures comprehensive planning and redevelopment strategies that address both the shortage of quality permanent rental housing and the need for new construction that aligns with resident and investor expectations.

At UMH, development is focused not only on constructing homes but on creating a sense of community. Their expert division dedicated to community relations and development works closely with city officials, federal and state grants programs, and private developers to coordinate the various services required to turn plans into realities. This holistic approach provides access to diverse funding streams, including federal loans and state grants, which alleviate financial barriers for both UMH and residents.

Collaborative Housing Opportunities in Memphis

Through providing incentives, UMH Properties motivates developers and community members to take part in projects improving affordable housing availability. These incentives, combined with coordinated programs funded through public and private partnerships, catalyze redevelopment efforts in Memphis neighborhoods that have long awaited renewal.

Such partnerships extend beyond River Bluff Estate community construction to include community planning, loan facilitation, and professional on-site management. The ability to provide loan assistance—a cornerstone of UMH’s housing services—helps families secure quality, affordable homes with predictable, manageable monthly costs. Thanks to this support, Memphis families achieve long-term housing security, which is fundamental to building stronger neighborhoods.

Meeting Memphis’ Needs through Redevelopment and New Construction

With numerous historic neighborhoods ready for redevelopment, UMH Properties pledges to manage these multi-phase projects with integrity and care. Through responsible redevelopment, land use is optimized while new construction aligns with both community character and local needs.

By applying careful planning, UMH’s redevelopment division makes certain that new manufactured home communities become a natural part of Memphis’s urban landscape, harmonizing population density with open spaces and communal amenities. As a liaison, the division coordinates among developers, lenders, and city agencies, ensuring incentives support sustainable development goals.

When undertaking new construction in Memphis, UMH ensures every manufactured home is built to the highest HUD standards. These energy-efficient homes provide the same level of comfort and aesthetic appeal as site-built homes but are delivered at a fraction of the cost. This approach reinforces UMH’s brand promise—“Quality Homes. Strong Communities.”—and makes new housing accessible to moderate-income families and retirees.

UMH Properties prides itself on delivering more than just housing; it provides community-centric living environments.
