

Why Post-Service Care Matters

Post-service care is integral to fostering client loyalty and trust. According to a survey conducted by the Professional Beauty Association, 85% of clients are more likely to return to a salon that provides them with thorough post-service instructions. At Shapes Nails, we recognize that our clients are not just seeking a service; they are investing in their self-care and wellbeing. By providing detailed post-service care, we help clients understand the importance of maintaining their nails, ultimately enhancing their overall experience.

Steps to Effective Post-Service Care

Step 2: Written Aftercare Instructions

Shapes Nails takes pride in providing detailed written aftercare guidelines that clients can take home. Here are some components of those guidelines:

- General Guidelines: This section covers basic do's and don'ts post-service. Examples include “Do keep nails dry and clean” and “Don't use your nails as tools.”
- Specific Product Recommendations: We list specific brands and products that work well with the services rendered, such as our preferred cuticle oil and moisturizing lotion brands that have been vetted for their effectiveness.
- Signs of Trouble: It is critical that clients know when to seek help. Our guidelines include signs of potential nail damage or infection, urging clients to return to Shapes Nails for inspection if they notice any abnormalities.

Step 4: Active Listening During Re-Visits

When clients return for their next appointment, Shapes Nails staff are trained to actively listen to any feedback regarding the post-service care provided. This involves asking specific questions, such as:

- “How have your nails felt since your last visit?”
- “Did you encounter any difficulties with the post-care instructions?”

By engaging in this dialogue, we demonstrate that client feedback is valued, which encourages long-lasting relationships.
